NO. 33

BUSY DAY IN CONGRESS

Raised in the House.

Speaker Reed Clearly Defines His Position.

A Message from the President Upon Recriprocity with the Latin-American Nations.

By the Associated Press.1

Washington, June 19 .- The senate resumed consideration of the legislative, general amendment. Mr. Paddock moved to increase the salary of the commissioner of the general land office from $4,000 to $5,000 and of the assistant commissioner from $3,000 to $3,500. Without action the bill was laid aside and the message of the president in relation to reciprocal commercial treaties with the Satin-American nations was laid on the table.

The President, in transmitting the communication, says:

"It has been so of ten and persistently stated that our tariff laws offered an insurmountable barrier to a large exchange of products with the Latin-American nations, that I deem it proper to call your especial attention to the fact that more than eighty-seven per cent of the products of these nations, sent to our ports, are now admitted free. If sugar is placed upon the free list, practically, every import article exported from those States, will be given untaxed access to our markets, except wool.

"The real difficulty in the way of negotiating profitable reciprocity treaties is that we have given freely subject, the Chair had consulted the Democratic members of the Committee on Rules, (Mr. Teloun and Mr. McMillan) and the gentlemen from Missouri and Illinois, (Mr. Bland and Mr. Springer) not for the purpose of throwing any responsibility upon them, but in order that he might benefit by any light they might be able to give.

After conversing with those gentlemen it had seemed clear to the Chair is that we have given freely that the rules of the House covered the so much that would have had value question and that his duty was to treat so much that would have had value question and that his duty was to treat in mutual concessions which such treaties imply. I cannot doubt however Accordingly the Clerk was not directed treaties imply. I cannot doubt however that the present advantages which the products of these near and friendly States enjoy in our markets though they are not by law exclusive, will with other are not by law exclusive, will with other currency. It was a question of parliamentary law and on the decision of the House depended the carrying out of the system of rules the House had It will certainly be time enough for us to consider whether we must cheapen the cost of production by cheapening labor in order to gain access to South American markets when we have tried the effect of established and reliable steam communication and convenient methods of money exchanges.

"There can be no doubt, 1 think, that with these facilities well established and with a rebate of duties upon imported raw materials used in the manufacture of goods for export, our merchants will able to compete in the ports of the Latin-American nations with those of any other country. If, after Congress shall have acted upon the pending tariff legislation, it shall appear that under the general treaty making power, or under any special powers given by law our trade with the States represented in the late conference can be enlarged upon a basis of material advantage, it will be promptly done.

"Secretary Blaine today received a telegram from the Chairman of the National Miller's convention at Minneapolis, saving that the millers were greatly agitated over the report that an additional duty of 80 cents per barrel had been imposed on American flour in Cuba thus prohibiting the American flour trade and asking for information. Secretary Blaine replied that he had no official advice but if correct the advance would make the duty $5.31 per barrel evidently intended by Spain to be prohibitory. He added, 'It has been constantly said for the last six months that the western farmer's demand in unconditional repeal of the sugar duty. It is within the power of the western farmers by encouraging a system of receiprocity to secure in exchange for the repeal of this duty free admission into the markets of 40,000,000 of people including Cuba.' In my opinion this is the most profitable policy for the western farmer to pursue.' In connection with the message Mr. Hale presented an amendment to be offered to the tariff bill as follows:

'And the President is hereby authorized without further legislation to de-clare the ports of the United States free and open to all products of any nation of the American Hemisphere, in which no export duties are imposed whatever and so long as such nation shall admit to its ports free of duties either national, provincial, municipal and other taxes flour, cornmeal and other breadstuffs, preserved meats, fish, vegetables and fruits, cottonseed oil, rice and other provisions, including all articles was finally announced yeas 121, nays of food, lumber, furniture, and all other articles of wood, agricultural implements and machinery, mining and me-chanical machinery, structural steel and an adjournment, Mr. Mills managing iron steel rails, locomotives, railway cars supplies, street cars, refined petroleum, or such other products of the United States as may be agreed upon." After eulogies on the deceased New im, or such other products of the York representatives, Nutting and Wil-

Washington, June 18 .- In the House this morning Mr. Mills objected to an approval of the journal on the ground that it was not read in full by the Clerk. Speaker Reed ordered a full reading. The Clerk was proceeding to read that portion of the Journal which disclosed reference of the Silver bill to the committee on coinage, weights and measures. Mr. McKinley moved that the journal be approved and demanded the previous question, despite Mr. Mills' protest that he was entitled to recognition and moved that the Journal contained a record of some thing that never happened.

Speaker Reed replied that it was for the House to decide and directed the Clerk to call the roll.

The Clerk proceeded while Mr. Springer amid applause from his party colleagues entered a vigorous protest. Addressing the Speaker he said: "You can ignore the rights of representatives of the people now, but the people will pull you down, sir, at the polls next November, and your party with you."

Mr. Mills offered a resolution, that the order of reference made by Speaker Are still Alive.

All committee amendments having been disposed of the bill was opened to illegal and void. The speaker in rendering his decision said he desired the members of the House to divest themselves of the idea this way have been a daily occur-rence since the adoption of the present rules. The chair desired also that the House should know that this particular transaction did not take place in a corner. In the regular course of business the Journal Clerk informed the Speaker that among the list of bills to be referred under the rules to the appropriate committees, was the silver bill with the Senate amendments. The Speaker was then asked whether he had any particular direction to make in regard to it. Knowing the bill to be one of grave public importance and anxious that he should have all possible light on the subject, the Chair had consulted the THE IMPRISONED MINERS HEARD adopted. If not satisfied with the reference directed by the Speaker under the present system of rules, the House could change the reference.

"Did this bill contain any provisions which, under the rules, ought to be considered in Committee of the Whole There was a provision in the original House bill by which certain bullion was to be purchased and certificates issued thereon. The Senate amendment was for free coinage and for this an appropriation was made. If anything clear in parliamentary law, it was that this bill was one of those which would be properly considered in Committee of the Whole, and this being so, it was ob-viously the duty of the Chair to refer it in the same manner in which hundreds and thousands of bills have been referred during the present session. The point of order raised by the gentleman from Illinois (Cannon), put the Chair in an embarrassing position because the proposed action of the House was a declaration that an error had been made in parliamentary law. It was proposed to erase from the journal a question of fact. While the chair might have some doubt about the point of order he felt it was a question the House ought to determine. He would there-fore over rule the point of order and submit the question to the House, Mr. Cannon moved to table the Mills resolution. On a standing vote this was carried by 120 to 110. Mr. Morrow, Califarnia, Mr. Bartine, Nevada, and Townsend, Colorado, voting with the Democrats. They were overlooked by the speaker in the first count but Mr. Morrow called his attentiod to the omis sion and it was rectified. On the vote by tellers the motion to table was lost. Yeas, 118; nays, 123. The question then recurred on Mr. Mills' resolution and it was agreed to. Yeas, 121; nays, 117. At the conclusion of the roll call the vote stood: Yeas, 119; nays, 117. A change of one vote would be necessary to defeat the resolution by a tie vote, and that change was made by Mr. Tunston of Kansas, amid derisive cheers by the Democrats. This left the vote yeas, 118; navs, 118, but the change proved unavailing as Messrs. Abbott (Texas) and Bullock (Florida) whose names were not recorded, stated that they had voted in the affirmative and the Speaker, accepting their statements, the vote stood: Yeas, 120; nays,

Then Mr. McKinley arose and changed his vote to the affirmative and the vote

Mr. McKinley was then recognized to to sandwich in a motion to lay the mo tion to reconsider on the table.

On the motion to lay Mr, Mills' reso-tion on the iable the following Republicans voted with the Democrats in the negative: Messrs. Bartine, Carter, Dehaven, Ewart, Kelly, Morrow and Townsend (Colorado). On the resolution itself Ewart did not vote but the others named voted in the affirmative. Mr. Cannon argued that the Senate amendments would require to be considered in the Committee of the Whole. This being so, it was the Speaker's duty to refer it to the committee he had.

Mr. Mills (Texas) made the point that under the existing rules the silver bill remained upon the speaker's table to be has not been nearly as satisfactory as increased, which can only be accounted for by either a fall of rock or the men digging to meet their rescuers.

THE PASSAGE OF THE SILVER BILL.

Some Believe that the Senate Went Too

Far in Its Measure, While Others Coincide With It.

NEW YORK, June 19 .- The news of the assage by the Senate of a bill providing for the free coinage of silver had no effect on the stock market and excited no influence on Wall street except among the dealers in silver bullion, who regard it with complaisance. Opinions of bankers and brokers as to its ultimate effect were diverse, but the general impression is that Molder's Union of this city, setting the measure means a wild inflation forth that on the 11th inst, the Molder's of the currency and an advance in every commodity dealt in.

Russel Sage and other people equally as prominent say they look on the bill with apprehension and fear ill effects to follow its passage. Some banks said the adoption of a free coinage measure would be disastrous and work great injury.
The effects of these unfavorable opinions put a damper on the little boom that started just after opening and delivery in advance met a decided restrain from any active movement until the passage of the bill through both houses was an assured fact.

Mr. Russell Sage said: "I look with apprehension upon the action of the Senate in passing a free coinage bill. If the law should ever become operative, it would create such an inflation that a panic would be sure to follow. In fact, believe the ill effects of the law will be felt immediately on its passage, because European holders of our securities would be almost certain to throw their holdings on our market, at least all securi-ties not payable in gold." John H. Inman said : "It looks to me might be a temporary boom in business if free coinage was adopted, but the final windup will almost certainly be disastrous.

orrow morning. ONLY THREE SEASONS.

There are only three annual seasons in the valleys of Arizons-spring, summer and autumn. We never have any winter, no snow storms or hard black frosts ever occur here. No bitter hyperborean blasts that require men and animals to be securely housed against freezing ever visit these sure blessed regions. On the contrary we gather the generous fruits of bountiful nature every month in the year. When winter spreads its white pall over dead nature in eastern and northern lands in November, December, January, February and often in March, here in Arizona we are having almost every variety of fresh, crisp garden vegetables, and are luxurihood club batted McGill all over the ating in ripe watermelons, peaches and field today and won an uninteresting figs picked from the vines and trees at Christmas tide. Oranges ripen in November and can be gathered from then until April. In February new potatoes, green peas and all kinds of "garden sass" are abundant. Ripe strawberries put in an appearance early in February and continue in successive crops until the following November. In the latter part of may and first of June early ripe apricots are ready for market and by the middle of May peaches are in and continue until Christmas. Figs are ripe about the same time as the early peaches and continue in successive crops, usually three and sometimes four, until late in November.

The grain harvest usually begins in May and is generally all cut, thrashed and safely housed before the first of July. Hay crops are cut three or four times during the year and yield bountifully. No one ever sees poor domestic animals in these valleys unless it is some fresh arrival from a less favored country.

This being the case is it any wonder the poor frozen up denizens of the hard, cold North and East where nature so nig-gardly yields bare sufficiency for life after a season of the hardest toil and then the long, bitter "winter consumes all the summer doth yield," are looking this way and hope to reach the land that verily floweth with the true milk and honey that make human existence a pleasure. Many of these have already learned to sing: There is a land of pure delight West of the mountain chain,
